COOPERATION !

The European University Alliance Circle U. brings together Aarhus Universitet, Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin, King's College London, Univerzitet u Beogradu, Universitetet i Oslo, Université catholique de Louvain, Université Paris Cité, Universität Wien and Università di Pisa. The "European Universities" initiative, which promotes cutting-edge teaching and research in Europe, is supported and funded by the European Commission. Our goal is to build an inter-university ecosystem and make of Circle U. an inclusive, research-intensive and interdisciplinary European university where students, staff and partners from civil society, businesses and the public sector collaborate to jointly develop competencies and solutions.

The role of pedagogical innovation in shaping the future of higher education is considered of utmost importance in Circle U. and it is the core mission of the Circle U. Think and Do Tank on the Future of Higher Education. One of the first steps of the Think and Do Tank was to map flagship education initiatives carried out by our Circle U. communities. Because Circle U. universities are innovative and resourceful, professionals working at Learning and Teaching centres at the different member universities have shown a keen interest in sharing their knowledge, experience and tools within the alliance. Thanks to the innovators' network that the Think and Do Tank Cafés are progressively building, this collaborative space will be fed up paving the way toward an international mutualisation of resources, training and practices in pedagogical innovation in higher education.

Last but not least, the Circle U. ERIA project, co-funded by the European Commission under the H2020 SwafS programme and launched on September 2021, will steer initiatives with the ambition to strengthen and deepen research collaboration and innovation within the Alliance for the next three years.

THE CIRCLE U. THINK AND DO TANK: PAVING THE WAY TOWARDS SUSTAINABLE EDUCATION

The Think and Do Tank of the alliance seeks to contribute to transforming curricula and teaching methods towards sustainable education within the alliance itself, not only by providing courses on sustainable development but also by ensuring that education will have a major impact on the sustainability of our societies. As outlined in the White Paper "Shaping the Future of Higher Education in a Changing World", sustainable education means finding innovative and creative ways of teaching and learning, focusing on interdisciplinary knowledge and taking into account the contribution of students. The goal of our Think and Do Tank is to promote a quality learning environment and academic success for students by imagining, experimenting and disseminating new ways of teaching and learning.

The programme of this Week reflects the particular ambition of Circle U. and its Think and Do Tank: i) it connects students, researchers and other external stakeholders to contribute to and influence the debate on the future of higher education, ii) it is pedagogically driven, bringing together thinkers and doers to improve teaching practices and to transform the universities from within, iii) it stimulates a culture of sharing and learning from others, emphasising and acknowledging that successful transfer of knowledge is about translating new insights into specific national, cultural and institutional settings, iv) it seeks to be directly linked to policymakers, so that new knowledge, findings and actions can easily influence the policy-making process.

All the open events of this programme are part of the Learning Planet Festival 2023 in collaboration with the Learning Planet Institute and UNESCO. This event is funded by the Europen Union and the French Programme d'Investissements d'Avenir.

TOWARDS SUSTAINABLE EDUCATION

Shaping the Future of Higher Education in a Changing World

The Think and Do Tank of Circle U. has been exploring critically the concept of sustainable education and its translation into educational praxis by identifying the relevant bodies of literature, teasing out implicit assumptions, and mapping the different arguments around sustainable education. In this way, the Think and Do Tank will make a central contribution to Circle U.'s overall effort to create and promote sustainable education for a sustainable world. The different sessions programmed will offer more space to translate the constitutive aspects of sustainable education into educational research, practice and policy.
